FUND COMMENTARY - SEPTEMBER 2025

The Flagship BCI Worldwide Flexible Fund returned 0.5% vs its CPI +3% benchmark which was up 0.2%, as most global equity markets delivered another month of strong performance to close out the 3rd quarter of 2025.

The biggest contributors for the month were Rolls Royce, Contemporary Ampere Technologies, and Celestica, while the main detractors were Blu Label Unlimited, Brinker International, and Stride.

As required by legislation, we confirm that the fund has adhered to its policy objective and strategy.

MARKET COMMENTARY

Equity markets showed no signs of cooling, closing out the 3rd quarter with strong gains. In the US, the S&P 500 gained 3.7% while the Nasdaq gained an impressive 5.7%. This puts their gains for the quarter at 8.1% and 11.4% respectively. Interestingly, these gains were behind that of the small-cap Russell 2000 index, up 12.4%. London's FTSE also experienced a positive month, ending 1.8% higher. Performance was particularly strong in the East, with Japan's Nikkei gaining 5.8% while the Hang Seng gained 7.6%. The MSCI ACWI ended 3.7% higher, while the Emerging Markets index was even stronger, gaining 7.2%. All these indices, strong as they were, paled in comparison to gold, up 12%, and silver a massive 17% higher over the month.

The performance of equity indices and precious metals were assisted by the continuation of the US rate cutting cycle, following a pause of 9 months. This led to a weakening of the USD, making the price of gold bullion (and other precious metals) more attractive. The price of gold has now ballooned by 40% this year, the biggest yearly surge since the 1979 energy and inflation crisis.

While inflation remains a concern, and comfortably above the Fed's target, the balance of risk has now shifted to the labour market, where there are several worrying signs emerging, warranting an interest rate cut. Jobs data continues to weaken, with recent revisions pointing to contraction rather than expansion of the workforce, and for the first time since 2021, there are now more unemployed people than job openings in the US. Concerns also remain around the speed of capital deployment funding the AI boom, and whether a bubble is close to popping. Spending on data centre construction now exceeds the cost of all private office construction in the US. In summary, a red-hot, expensive equity market, above-average inflation, weakening job-data, and rate cuts...we remain vigilant of this worrisome combination.

From a geopolitical perspective, Gaza and Ukraine continue to be the flashpoints. Several countries have now formally recognized a Palestinian state, while NATO allies have warned Russia that it is ready to act with force should airspace incursions continue.

Like global peers, the JSE had a strong month in September, gaining 6.6%. This was largely driven by the Resources index, which ended a massive 25.5% higher. The Rand also gained more than 2% against the US Dollar after the SARB held rates steady, in contrast to US Fed's rate cut decision. From a news flow perspective, there were both positive and negatives. On the negative side, South African ports remain the worst-run in the world, and the scale of the Tembisa graft came to light – at least R2 billion from a single hospital. On a more positive note, though, Eskom achieved profitability for the first time in 8 years, and South Africa is poised to be removed from a global financial grey list, possibly by the end of the month.
