INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

The Fund's aim, first and foremost, is the protection of client capital in real terms, followed by inflation-beating growth. To identify the best global investment opportunities, the Fund is style agnostic; uses bottom-up fundamental analysis; quantitative and technical analysis tools; and top-down, macro screeners. The Fund utilizes a proprietary Active Risk Management System which aims to significantly reduce risk from any single investment. The Fund will employ a dynamic approach to investments, trading its positions more often than traditional buy-and-hold portfolios.

FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY - OCTOBER 2025

The Flagship Global Equity Fund was flat for the month, vs 2.2% for the MSCI ACWI (both in USD), as most equity markets started the last quarter of 2025 in the green. The biggest contributors for the month were Credo Technology, Celestica, and Nvidia, while the main detractors were Stride, Adtalem Global Education, and Meta.

As required by legislation, we confirm that the fund has adhered to its policy objective and strategy.

INVESTMENT COMMENTARY

Equity markets continue to defy sky-high valuations, fiscal deficits (now $38 trillion in the US, only 2 months after breaching $37 trillion), and geopolitical and trade uncertainty. During October, most global indices kicked off the 4th quarter in the same fashion they ended the 3rd – up! In the US, the S&P 500 gained 2.3%, while the Nasdaq closed 4.7% higher. This was the 7th straight month of gains for the Nasdaq, its longest monthly winning streak since 2018. Much of this performance was spurred by the seemingly unstoppable “megacaps”, as Nvidia became the first company to reach a market cap of $5 trillion, while both Apple and Microsoft joined the $4 trillion club.

Outside the US, performance was equally strong. Though the FTSE 100 gained 4.1%, and the Euro Stoxx 50 gained 2.4%, both pale in comparison to Japan's Nikkei, up 16.6%, after election results that point to a more dovish policy stance going forward. This also led to concerns over stimulus, sending bond yields higher and the Yen lower. A notable laggard, the Hang Seng, declined by 3.5%, as China and the US, the world's 2 largest economies, briefly renewed their trade-spat before extending their existing truce for another year.

Looking at commodities, the price of Brent Crude declined by 2.9%, as OPEC signalled more production increases ahead, following similar hikes in October and November; and a ceasefire, albeit fragile, was established in the Middle East. Gold, up 3.7% for the month, breached $4000/ounce for the very first time, driven by safe haven demand, a weak yen, and the US government shutdown (which is on the verge of being the longest in history), but experienced notable intra-month volatility as it rallied north of $4300, before retreating sharply towards the end of the month.

With the bulk of S&P500 companies reporting their Q3 results, several datapoints proved interesting. CEOs continue to point towards resilient consumer spending, but evidence is mounting that this is driven by the top income brackets only and could rapidly change in the event of a market sell-off. Job numbers also remain concerning, with private companies cutting 32 000 jobs in September, the biggest decline in more than 2 years. After the predictable Fed rate cut last month, attention now turns to the December meeting, with odds of another cut dropping notably following hawkish tones from the Fed, as inflation remains sticky above the Fed's target.

TER

The Flagship Global Equity Fund Class A USD has an estimated Total Expense Ratio (TER) of 1.40%. The Total Expense Ratios (TERs) are the percentages of the net asset value of the class of the Financial Product incurred as expenses relating to the administration of the Financial Product. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. A current TER may not necessarily be an accurate indication of future TERs. As the Fund has been operational for a period of less than one year, the TER to 30 June 2025 is based on estimated data on costs and actual fees incurred. Cost ratios are calculated using historical actual and/or estimated data and are provided solely as an indication/guide as to the annual expenses/costs that could be incurred. These ratios do not represent any current/actual charges or fees.
