INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

The Fund's aim, first and foremost, is the protection of client capital in real terms, followed by inflation-beating growth at an acceptable level of risk. The Fund has flexibility in terms of its asset allocation strategies and can be invested in equities, bonds, cash and the property market, but over the long-term, it will be managed in an equity-centric manner. To identify the best global investment opportunities, the Fund is style agnostic; uses bottom-up fundamental analysis; quantitative and technical analysis tools; and top-down, macro screeners.

FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY - JANUARY 2026

The Flagship Worldwide Flexible Fund ($) performed extremely well over the month, comfortably outperforming the fund's US CPI +3% benchmark, as equity markets started the new year on a strong note, despite the sizeable pullback on the very last day of the month.

The biggest contributors for the month were Micron, Glencore and Corning, while the main detractors were Blu Label, Celestica, and Heritage Insurance Holdings.

As required by legislation, we confirm that the fund has adhered to its policy objective and strategy.

INVESTMENT COMMENTARY

Equity markets started the year strongly. In the US, the S&P and Nasdaq gained 1.4% and 1.0% respectively, while London's FTSE, off to a flyer, gained 3.0%. The strongest performance came from the East, as Japan's Nikkei rose by 5.9%, while the Hang Seng was up a meaningful 6.9% for the month. The USD was again weak compared to most of its peers, boosting the above non-US returns, when measured in dollars.

Partly responsible for the weak dollar was a Justice Department criminal investigation into Fed chairman, Jerome Powell, which is widely considered to be politically motivated, drawing condemnation from both sides of the political divide. Powell himself called it an attack that "brings the US closer to emerging markets with weak institutions". Later in the month, the Fed kept borrowing rates constant, while two Fed dissenters called for a 25-basis point cut. Cutting rates is certainly not required to spur growth, as the US economy expanded by 4.4% during the third quarter, marginally higher than expected.

Chinese economic growth for Q4'25 came in at 4.5%, its weakest level in nearly 3 years. The weak Chinese consumer data outweighed the contribution from a record year for Chinese exports contributing to a record $1.2 trillion trade surplus, despite Trump tariff heat, as they successfully re-routed sales to Southeast Asia, Africa, and Latin America.

The real story this month was in the commodity space. Gold breached $5,000 for the first time, soaring to a record $5,500. Silver, meanwhile, had its biggest one-day jump (+14%) in 40 years. The exuberance was short lived, though, as Trump's announcement of a new Fed Chair, perceived by many to be more hawkish, led to an historic collapse in metal prices. Gold fell 11% and silver 31% in a single session.

The geopolitical landscape across the globe remains volatile. After a ruffling of feathers between the US and NATO, there seems to be progress towards an agreement on Greenland. This will be closely monitored, though, and we are seeing increasing evidence of many countries (Canada-China and Europe-India) looking to diversify away from the US and the Dollar. Treasury Secretary Scott Bessent calling allies like Denmark "irrelevant" is not helping the US cause. This unease between allies was a large contributor to the historic rallies in various precious metals. US-Iran tensions are also building as the US ramps up its military presence in the region, with strikes against Tehran reportedly being considered.

TER

The Flagship Worldwide Flexible Fund ($) Class A USD has a Total Expense Ratio (TER) of 1.90%. Financial year-end TER 1.90%. The Total Expense Ratios (TERs) are the percentages of the net asset value of the class of the Financial Product incurred as expenses relating to the administration of the Financial Product. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. A current TER may not necessarily be an accurate indication of future TERs. As the Fund has been operational for a period of less than one year, the TER to 30 June 2025 is based on estimated data on costs and actual fees incurred. Cost ratios are calculated using historical actual and/or estimated data and are provided solely as an indication/guide as to the annual expenses/costs that could be incurred. These ratios do not represent any current/actual charges or fees.
